

This Policy sets out the requirements for directors, employees, consultants and contractors of Westgold Resources Limited ('Westgold' or the 'Company') and its related entities (collectively 'Staff') in relation to dealing in securities of Westgold.

This Policy has important implications for all Staff. If you do not understand the implications of this Policy or how it applies to you, you should raise the matter with the Executive Director or the Company Secretary before trading in any securities which may be affected by this Policy or the law.

This Policy only provides a summary of applicable legal and regulatory issues which are complex, and should therefore only be used as a general guide, not as.

INSIDER TRADING

The Corporations Act 2001 prohibits insider trading. A person ('the insider') who possesses inside information about a company must not apply for, acquire, or dispose of a company's securities or derivatives or procure someone else to do these things for them.

An insider is also prohibited from communicating inside information to another person if the insider knows or ought to know that this person will apply for, acquire, or dispose of a company's securities or derivatives or get someone else to do these things for the person.

Inside information, in general terms, is information that:

- (i) is not generally available;
- (ii) concerns a company's financial position, strategy or operations and any other information; and
- (iii) which a reasonable person might consider, if it were generally available, would be likely to have a material effect on a decision to buy or sell a company's securities (or derivatives).

Examples of possible inside information include, but are not limited to:

- a material variance in the financial performance of the Company against its budget;
- entry into or termination of a material contract (such as a major joint venture);
- a material acquisition or sale of assets by the Company;
- an actual or proposed takeover or merger;
- material drilling results;
- an actual or proposed change to the Company's capital structure;
- a proposed dividend or a change in dividend policy;
- a significant change in senior management of the Company; or
- a material claim against the Company or other unexpected liability.

Information is generally available if:

- it is on the Company's website;
- it is published in the media;
- it has been available for some time and be expected to be known to investors; or
- it has been published from information which has already been made public.

Insider trading is a criminal offence. If you are found guilty of insider trading, you could be liable to a fine or a jail term. You may also have to compensate others for their losses.

TRADING POLICY*Underlying Principle

As a general rule Staff must not:

- (i) buy, sell or otherwise deal in Westgold securities while in possession of price sensitive information;
- (ii) advice, procure or encourage any other person to buy, sell or otherwise deal in Westgold securities while in possession of price sensitive information;
- (iii) pass on information to any person, if you know or ought to reasonably know that the person may use the information to buy, sell or otherwise deal (or procure another person to buy, sell or otherwise deal) in Westgold securities.

Staff should not buy, sell or otherwise deal in Westgold securities during a prohibited period:

- (i) the period of one month immediately preceding the announcement of Westgold annual results
- (ii) the period of one month immediately preceding the announcement of Westgold half year results
- (iii) the period of one month immediately preceding the announcement of Westgold' quarterly results or, if shorter, the period from the relevant end of quarter up to and including the time Westgold quarterly results are announced;
- (iv) any period when Westgold is in possession of unpublished price sensitive information;
- (v) any other period notified by the Company, when Staff are prohibited from trading, which may be imposed by the Company from time to time when the Company is considering matters which are subject to Listing Rule 3.1A.

Senior Management is required to obtain prior written approval from the Chairman, or in his absence, the approval of two directors prior to any trading being undertaken.

The dealing in financial products issued or granted over or in respect of Westgold securities which have the effect of limiting the economic risk of participating in unvested entitlements is prohibited during a prohibited period.

If you have price sensitive information relating to a company other than Westgold which is not generally available, the same insider trading rules apply.

Dealing in Westgold securities during a prohibited period by a family member is to be discouraged.

- (iv) undertakings to accept, or acceptance of, takeover offers;
